R I S E - The Roadshow

FFIN DANCE is thrilled to be taking our unique and bespoke workshops on the road to share an immersive and creative experience to our participants

Our Artistic Director Sue Lewis and the FFIN DANCE professional dancers have recently created our brand new dance work R I S E

The work is based around the every day bias and inequalities that exist within our community and how we can rise above them.

We are excited to work with individuals from all backgrounds and age demographics to explore these themes further in various settings

- Creating a safe environment for creative minds to collide and a platform for individuals to express themselves without judgement
- Creating opportunities to tell stories, and to continue the expansion of this work

Our workshops are ideal for junior schools, comprehensive schools, community groups or organisations who offer movement or dance related classes to anyone 8+

We can also work alongside organisations who offer support to individuals for a variety of different reasons.

Our workshops are adaptable to all and can be interpreted by the individual's perspective. That's what makes art so fantastic.

*Travel costs may need to be discussed depending on location.

To Enable The RoadShow To Take Place

Each organisation and location is going to differ in size both of the available space we can use and how many participants will be in attendance. Our workshops are movement / dance based and we require a big enough space to accommodate the necessary participants and their movements.

Workshop sizes can not exceed 25 participants. If you have more interested participants please discuss this with us as options may be available to split the sessions (this will need to be 3 hours or a full day). The space available will need to be suitable to accommodate this amount of people plus the professional dancers.

For all schools who will opt for our RoadShow to visit their school, we will require you to have the correct staff to children ratios and insist that teachers are present throughout the workshops.

It is desirable for us to use a PA / sound system at your venue, however this is not essential.

Let's Explore R I S E

R I S E was created by Artistic Director Sue Lewis, and it explores many starting points including Dylan Thomas's play for voices 'Under Milk Wood'

It looks at individual journeys and real-life struggles through other peoples' perspective and how their opinions and views can impact an outcome

R I S E is made up of the following sections:

- The Beginning
- Gossip
- Victims
- Dream
- Rewritten

R I S E was created with a view for it to be performed on a traditional stage, outdoor spaces, school halls and any other space which could accommodate its performance. Taking into consideration all view points, audience participation and accessibility, the work is completely adaptable.

Like most works created by Sue Lewis, R I S E is hugely inspired and supported by its musical score, R I S E is an eclectic mix of modern day classics including Portishead and Sneaker Pimps.

A full in-depth coverage of the creative process can be found via Sue Lewis' blog below.
